THE ACTIVE SHOOTER RESPONSE PROGRAM

An "active shooter" is an individual who is engaged in killing or attempting to kill, people in a confined and populated area. Because active shooter situations are often over within 10 to 15 minutes -- before law enforcement arrives on the scene -- individuals must be prepared both mentally and physically to deal with an active shooter situation.

By the end of this course the participant will have increased their awareness, survival mindset and chances of surviving an active shooter situation. This course will provide a definition of what an active shooter is in the context of an office, school or public space environment. Participants will learn about the mindset and motivations of an active shooter with examples provided by recent, high profile active shooter situations. Participants will be able to identify potential workplace violence indicators and create a safety plan.

Additionally the participant will learn how the body and mind react under high levels of stress encountered in high risk situations. Also, this course looks at real world tactics and combatives that work in real life, violent confrontations.
